25 years at Glasalu!

On the 12th of March this year the production manager of Glasalu, Torben Sørensen, had been with the company for 25 years!

Torben, originally a carpenter, started out as a fixer, but soon moved into the production. He was in charge of cutting and has since then had a lot of different functions.

On the 1st of October 1990 he got his first managing position in the production.

It is well known to most people that Torben has great experience and knowledge with our products. He knows all profile systems with the proud name of Hansen. He knows all production details, the different functions, and has been involved in many new product developments during the years at Glasalu. To name a few he had his share in the old door system named "64", and in Hansen Millennium[®]. If you involve and consult Torben you are guaranteed a constructive dialogue with a clear aim for a solution.

Torben is also known as a "happy southerner from Jutland". And as these people most commonly are, he can both smile and be a bit grumpy. But even during hard times he always manages to come out on the other side with a smile, because that's the way he is.

He has great respect among his colleagues, as they know he will always be there for them, and go the extra mile to help them in the job at hand. If a project is delayed, he will always find a solution for all to accept.

A quarter of a century after his start at Glasalu, Torben is now a granddad. A fit and healthy one of the kind, because of his many good hobbies: running, cycling and badminton.

With the age of 46 years we expect many good years yet, together with a good colleague, and a true Viking. Hard at work, reliable, a clear goal and social consciousness – this is the people skills we wish for.

All the best to you Torben.

Kind regards

Bjarne Glargaard.
